Prepping for Ebola, just in case

First responders meeting, planning response if deadly virus comes here

By Ben Carlson
News staff

Bart Powell is no stranger to dealing with what ifs. Anderson County's director of emergency management, Powell has spent his career preparing for worst-case scenarios ranging from earthquakes and tornadoes to floods. During the past couple of weeks, Powell has added the Ebola virus to his list and is doing everything he can to make sure Anderson County is prepared, just in case the dreaded virus makes it here. "We are taking this seriously," Powell said Monday as he and his staff prepared for a second round of meetings with other public officials this Wednesday. "We realize the magnitude of having even a single case." The virus became worldwide news when it appeared in West Africa, where it has reportedly killed around 4,000 people and infected thousands more.

Marching band named grand champions

Victory a first in Brady's tenure

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

The Anderson County Marching Bearcats reached a new milestone Saturday when they were named grand champion of the Louisville Classic, held at Male High School.

It marked the first time Anderson County has been named grand champion at any contest in director Patrick Brady's six-year tenure as director. Records are unclear but it is believed to be Anderson's first grand championship in recent memory.

When it was announced that Louisville Eastern was reserve grand champion, the Anderson band members could be seen high-fiving and celebrating the overall championship

"I thought you survived Iraq and now you want to rappel down a building," said Nycole. "He's the wings and I'm the roots in our relationship. He gets me out of my comfort zone and I keep him grounded. I know he'd do anything for those kids though."

Their son Tristan, 7, who is a member of Pack 38, was nervous. Nycole said he kept grilling her

Heart attack may have caused fatal wreck

Stevens likely died of coronary before vehicle struck SUV, tree on US 62

By Ben Carlson
News staff

A Lawrenceburg man likely died from natural causes just before the vehicle he was driving struck an SUV then hit a tree Sunday morning on US 62 in Lawrenceburg.

Frankie Stevens, 41, of 1106 Fox Creek Goshen Road had an apparent heart attack, which lead to the wreck, Anderson County Coroner Mark Tussey said Monday.

"The collision may have been a contributing factor," Tussey said. "The preliminary autopsy suggests he suffered a heart attack, causing him to lose control the vehicle."

Stevens was travelling west on US 62 around 8 a.m. when the vehicle he was driving went off the road, hitting another vehicle and a tree near 1321 Fox Creek Road. Tussey said Stevens was wearing his seatbelt at the time of the wreck.

Tussey said Stevens was pronounced dead at the scene around 8:40 a.m. by deputy coroner Richard Medley.

An autopsy was performed Sunday afternoon, the final results of which could take a couple of weeks, Tussey said.

Funeral arrangements were still pending Tuesday afternoon. For updates, visit theandersonnews.com.

Three years, three DUIs for Lunsford

Police use Taser after suspect leads them on vehicle, foot chase

From staff reports

A Lawrenceburg man was charged with his third DUI in less than five years after allegedly leading police on a chase late Saturday night.

James N. Lunsford, 32, of 1156 Pumphouse Road is charged with third-offense DUI, first-degree fleeing police in a vehicle, second-degree fleeing police on foot, resisting arrest and careless driving, according to documents on file in Anderson District Court.

Lunsford pleaded not guilty to those charges when he was arraigned Monday in District Court, where Judge Donna Dutton ordered him held in the Earlier this month, the virus hit home when a man who traveled from West Africa to Texas was diagnosed and later died, followed by a second positive diagnosis from a nurse who cared for him.

Now, Powell and other first responders have proper protocols in place, including that dispatchers at the city's 911 Center ask questions that could give first responders a chance to take preventative measures before dealing with a patient.

Powell said while those measures are being taken, the odds of the virus spreading here aren't that high. "The probability is low, currently, but we do have world travelers who live here," Powell said.

Powell and the joint Local Emergency Planning Committee has already held one meeting to begin putting in place protocols to deal with Ebola.

Powell said he met Oct. 8 with the heads of the city police, sheriff's office, emergency medical services, schools, local and state health officials, Department of Agriculture, 911 dispatch, Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway and city and county fire.

"All were given assignments to bring back information," said Powell, who added the group is scheduled meet again Wednesday, along with medical professionals and representatives from Frankfort Regional Medical Center.

As for equipment, Powell said his office has a number of hazardous materials suits and breathing apparatus that are rated to deal with Ebola.

He said some on the ambulance staff and firefighters are trained on hazardous materials, and that more are going to be trained fairly soon.

He said the meetings and other actions are simply steps to ensure Anderson County is ready for Ebola, should it arrive.

"I think we are well on our way to preparedness," said Powell, who oversaw disaster preparedness for years while working in Lexington.

"We will continue to prepare the community and continue to come up with protocols."

Shelby County Detention Center on $5,000 cash bail.

At the time of his arrest, Lunsford had a blood alcohol level of .203 and had in his possession what police said was a "snort straw" that Lunsford claimed he used to "snort Tylenol," according to the report.

Lunsford crossed the centerline three times while driving on US 127 Bypass late Saturday night, according to a report filed by officer Brian Brashears.

Brashears said when he turned on his blue lights, Lunsford turned into the McDonald's parking lot at the intersection of the Bypass and Frankfort Road before circling the building and turning onto Frankfort Road and heading toward Lawrenceburg.

Lunsford then turned onto Ninevah Road and nearly struck a vehicle driven by deputy Alan Robinson of the sheriff's office, who was assisting Brashears, according to the report.

Lunsford the pulled into a residence at 1116 Ninevah Road, got out of the vehicle and took off on foot, the report said.

Deputies quickly caught up to Lunsford and used a Taser on him to bring him under control, police said.

Lunsford has been convicted of DUI twice in Anderson County, once on March 10, 2011 and again May 31, 2012, according documents on file in Anderson District Court.

of the prestigious contest.

“I think they felt complete vindication for their hard work. They had such a magical week of practice and focus. When that happens, magical moments like that happen,” said Brady.

In the afternoon session, Anderson won Class AAAA2 and won the class award for best percussion and best color guard. However, Anderson’s score was two points behind Eastern, which competes in a higher class.

Anderson turned in an almost flawless performance in the finals competition for the overall title, beating Eastern Saturday night by 0.7 point. Rounding out the top five finalists were North Oldham, South Oldham and John Hardin.

Anderson also won the finals award for best overall color guard, best overall percussion, best overall effect and best visual in the presentation of the program, “Comic Relief.”

“We have a show that is very related to the common man and my kids are more hard working than any other band kids I’ve seen,” Brady said. “The kids pushed me last week. Their passion and intensity has been through the roof.”

She reassured her son that his father would be just fine and he’s climbing down a building like Spider-Man.

To that Tristan replied, “Dad is not Spiderman, mom.”

On top of the 410 foot-tall Lexington Financial Center building, Travis could have momentarily been mistaken for the popular comic book avenger. He said the hardest part was leaning back off the edge of building and those initial first steps when he knew “this was it.”

“My only thought was remembering what I was taught in the Army to look at your feet when you’re nervous,” said Travis. “The only problem was that it was a mirrored surface and I could still see all the way down.”

About a third of the way down, Travis’ carabiner locked up. He signaled that he needed more rope stack.

On the ground level, Tristan screamed encouragements to his father.

“Dad! Just move your legs. You can do it,” he said.

Once Travis was able to move again, he did so at a slow and steady pace. Shortly before he locked up, Travis said he was moving so fast initially that he could smell his brake glove getting hot.

When he made it to the bottom, Travis hugged his family and posed for pictures.

As cold weather approaches, he said he plans to focus on book learning as well as few fun activities such as bowling, ice-skating and an upcoming chili cookoff on Thursday, Oct. 23.

Just after Braving the Blue, Travis was already dreaming up new extreme ideas for future fundraising.

“It was an experience, but I’d do it again” he said.

Get 'blanking' signs off intersections

Column as I see 'em ...
I ranted a bit last week about the non-existent enforcement of the new city/county sign ordinance and should have mentioned the following: those campaign signs candidates and their supporters are putting up all over the county aren't supposed to be traffic hazards, are they? Several in particular are getting way under my skin, not because of who they represent but because they block the view of an already sketchy intersection.

There was a minor wreck there Monday and I'll wage dollars to donuts those signs played a roll.

I get it that it's election time and the prospect of having code enforcers handing candidates sign ordinance citations isn't a good look for those trying to stay in office.

But how about they at least enforce getting the blankety-blanking signs the blank away from the blankety-blanking intersections and allow drivers (and school buses) a chance to see when pulling into traffic.

Speaking of political races ...
Alison Lundergan Grimes' refusal to tell the Courier-Journal's editorial board how she voted in the previous presidential election made me laugh — good gravy, Alison, we all know so cop to it and move on — then think. I've considered for years asking that question of local candidates, even the ones running in the so-called non-partisan races. (If this mayoral contest isn't partisan, what is?)

Granted, most Democrats running for office would rather drink clabbered milk through a straw than admit voting for the president, and who could blame them?

I've held off, though, because I've never really considered it any of my business, which to me makes it none of yours. If you really need to know, ask them yourself.

It is intriguing to consider, though, and here's why. I don't know about the smaller local Republican Party, but I've been told time and again that Democrats running for office here must swear they will never go against their own party, which I assume means voting for a Republican or, God forbid, a Libertarian. I doubt that oath includes some Mafioso-styled blood-letting ritual or swearing on their children's eyes, but an oath's and oath, right?

Being that about 70 percent of this county voted against the president in 2012, there's no doubt that many card-carrying proud Democrats joined that particular parade, the reason for which I'll leave for you to decide.

Among them had to be at least a few (if not most) of the Democrat Party hierarchy, oath or no oath. I'll freely stipulate that's pure assumption, but I vividly recall seeing nary an Obama sign in their yards in 2008 or 2012.

Granted, most Democrats running for office would rather drink clabbered milk through a straw than admit voting for the president, and who could blame them? Admitting they did while trying to appeal to a voter base that thinks the president is an African-born socialist who bows to Mecca twice a day and is purposely trying to ruin America is a sure recipe for defeat.

Besides, if they break what I consider such a silly oath, that's between them and their Democrat Party gods, I suppose.

Speaking of Alison ...

I take a great deal of joy in snooping around her Secretary of State website to see just who's funding the campaigns of local politicians.

As of Monday, there was nary a bit of information from the latest reporting period (the timeframe during which candidates have to fess up about donations).

I get it that she's out learning how to shoot guns, heat her house with coal and shunning illegal immigrants and all, but it sure would be nice if she and her staff could get a little work done in Frankfort in the meantime and update that portion of her website.

Speaking of Mitch ...

OK, I wasn't speaking of McConnell but fair is fair and if I'm going to poke fun at Alison I'll do the same for him.

I spent part of last Friday listening to him speak at Four Roses Distillery at what was largely a private event for the Kentucky Distillers' Association.

He stumped fairly well in front of a small but receptive group, but made me laugh when he kept inferring that he would become senate majority leader if people elect enough Republicans to take control of the Senate.

Mitch old buddy, there's a reason an inexperienced politician riding daddy's famous name and coattails is close to choking you out, and it's not because of the great work you've done as minority leader.

If the GOP takes over the Senate, it's anything but a given you'll end up in charge, if you're there at all.

Football team's hazing went entirely too far

The details of the most bizarre high school hazing event I have ever heard of were recently reported at Sayreville War Memorial High School in New Jersey, where upperclassmen reportedly sexually assaulted freshman football players by lifting the victims by their feet "while a finger was force into his rectum," according to NJ Advance Media.

Shelley Spillman

So far, six have been charged in connection to the locker room assault, according to NJ Advance Media. The remainder of the football season has been suspended.

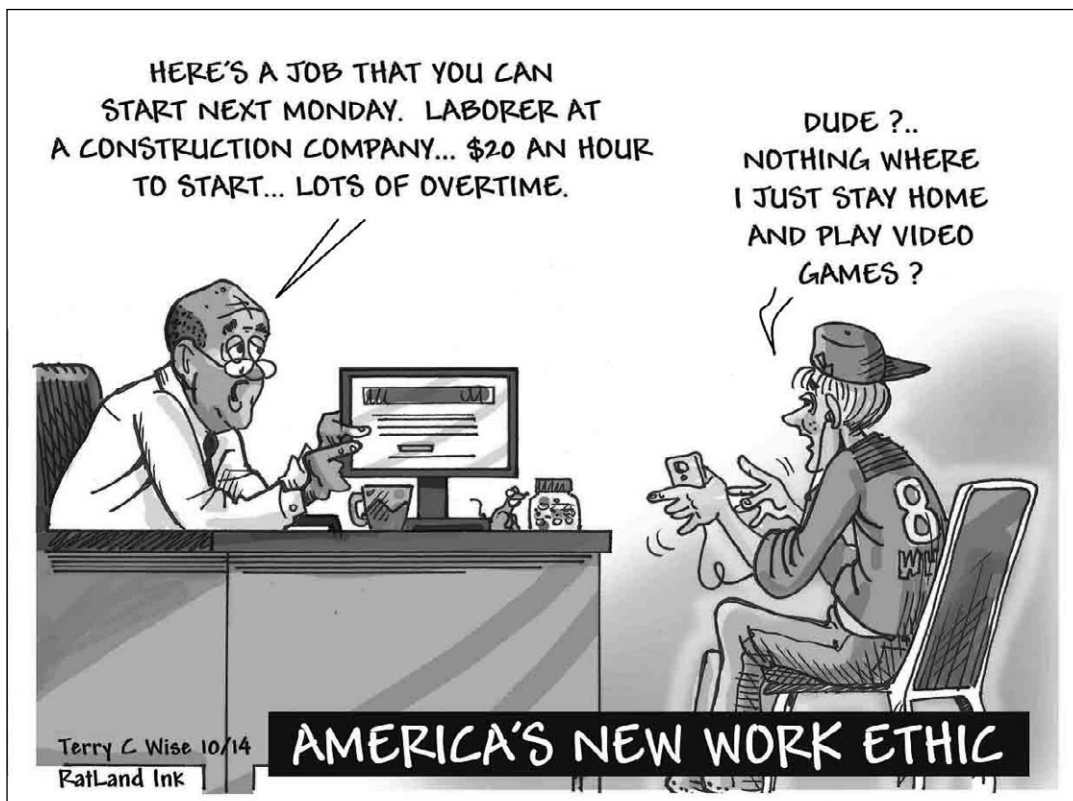

What in the world? What is going on with football players at Sayreville War Memorial High School?

As a 27-year-old, I can say that it wasn't that long ago that I was a teenager. I remember doing things like toilet papering houses and ding-dong ditching, but I can't say the form of hazing at Sayreville ever crossed my mind. That goes so far past the norms of teenage tomfoolery that I cannot even comprehend or relate to it.

As a teen, I was also involved in hazing for my high school's FFA. My hands were dipped in green dye that made me look like a sci-fi creature; I had to wear a T-shirt upperclassmen created for me that had hand prints all over it and generally was just embarrassing to wear. The worst of it was being dropped off in a field in the country a few miles away, having to find our way back in the Fire safety reminders always important

To the editor:

This past Saturday morning the American Red Cross conducted an informational canvas of a section of Lawrenceburg.

This was in conjunction with a nationwide Home Fire Preparedness Campaign that launched this past week.

This is a five-year nationwide campaign to reduce fire deaths in the United States by 25 percent. During the canvas, over 400 homes in the Main Street to Hilltop Drive, bordered by Ballard Street area of Lawrenceburg were given information on fire safety.

I would like to thank Lawrenceburg Fire and Rescue Chief Bobby Hume and his firefighters who participated; members of KY4LAW; Anderson Radio Club, and the Red Cross volunteers from various chapters, including the Franklin County and Shelby County Chapters and other chapters who helped out on this canvas to make it a success.

Fire safety awareness is a subject there can never be too much of. This could not have been accomplished without the help these people.

As a fellow American Red Cross volunteer I appreciate their willingness to step up and help better inform our community.

Once again, thank you all for your assistance and the Lawrenceburg community for its hospitality.

A lesson learned in being prepared

Tiller saved the farm. It started out as a typical evening. I came home, fed the dogs, loaded and started the dishwasher and then went out and dug sweet potatoes. I came in about dusk, changed into my lounge pajamas, loaded a DVD and ate a bowl of chili. That's when Tiller started talking.

Cheryl Steenerson
Columnist

She would whine and bark, whine and bark, while lying in the kitchen in front of the sink. That's her usual mid-way spot, halfway between the door and den. As an 18-year-old arthritic golden retriever with bad hips, she takes a little lay down after about 20 steps. But she wouldn't move from the kitchen and she wouldn't be quiet.

I got up to put my bowl in the sink and that's when I smelled it. It was that burning wire smell. Then the timer on the stove started going off, in a weird and distorted pitch. The stove wasn't on but the digital read out of time was all distorted. I quickly shut off the breaker to the stove. Problem was it is also the breaker for the refrigerator. I tugged to pull the stove out in order to get to the plug. No go. Then, I call the neighbors and left a message for my friend Brent to come help me tug.

Not one to stand still, especially when I still smell burning wires, I kept tugging and got it moved out. Then I unplugged the stove and found a little water where there should be none. Next door is the dishwasher, so I opened the kitchen cabinet and took a peak behind it. There it was, a burning wire, right next to the house wall.

Keep in mind that I teach emergency preparedness and crisis prevention and intervention. I called 911 for the first time in my life and could barely remember my address. While on the phone, I quickly went to the pantry to get the fire extinguishers. Neither one worked. They had expired. The guy on the phone said to get everyone out of the house and wait. Help was on the way.

I grabbed my car keys, house and cell phones then slipped on a jacket and boots that I always keep by the door, and got all three dogs and the cat outside to wait. Then the neighbors called back. I told them not to worry, I had gotten the stove out and the fire department was on the way. First thing Chief Barnes said was "That's some drive!" "Yes," I said, "you should walk up it in the winter!"

He quickly had me turn off the main breaker, went in by flashlight and discovered the wire.

He made relatively short work of cutting the wire and taping it off safely so we could get the power back on. Then the neighbor called back and told me no less than five neighbors had called her to ask if Cheryl was OK and if she needed any help. I love my little village.

I just kept thinking how lucky I was to be home when this happened. I would have lost everything. In my hyper-elated state, I went through my postgame analysis. It's a review of what actions were taken and what could have made it better. Barnes said I did everything right. I had a plan. The only action I needed to change was to check the expiration dates on my fire extinguishers.

The moral of this story is to be prepared for anything and to check your readiness annually. I will replace those extinguishers today. The plumber and electrician will be out today. It's all good, thanks to Tiller. She got a lot of love and attention, in addition to some treats. Diet be damned.

Now, go check your own fire extinguisher dates and replace them if you should. Make sure you have your own evacuation plan for the family. Check your smoke alarms. Keep keys, phones and outerwear handy and make sure everyone has a safe place to meet up. I hope you never have to do it for real, but going through it unscathed sure makes you happy to be alive. Happy growing.

Teen's friends can have positive, negative impact

The teenage years can be rough on teens and parents, as young people strive for independence and parents learn how and when to let go.

Joan Martin
Guest columnist

One of the most common stresses teens feel is influence from their friends. While teens want to be independent, they also seek acceptance and advice from their friends.

As children move from middle elementary into pre-teen years, they begin to devote more time to their friends than their family members.

Having friends is good. Friendships help pre-teens and teens navigate these challenging years. Friends play an important role in teaching youth how to form strong, positive relationships. Friendships help teens learn how to work with all kinds of different people, which will be helpful no matter what career they choose. So those school projects with challenging members can actually be helpful life experiences.

Encourage your teen to develop friendships with a variety of individuals who share similar interests. For example, maybe your teen plays high school sports but is also involved in the school's business club. She can have friends from each group.

Having friends in many different groups can also help your teen navigate peer pressure. She will always have a group of friends to go to in case she has a falling out with another group.

Positive friendships are very healthy for teens, but sometimes relationships can have a negative impact. Friends could have undesirable attributes such as a bad attitude, no ambition, be disrespectful or engage in risky behaviors. They may encourage their friends to do similar things.

As a parent, you can help your teen successfully develop relationships during the teen years and resist negative peer influence. While you may not think he listens to you any more, he does. Here are some tips:

Get to know your teen's friends, their dreams for the future, their goals and what they do with their spare time.

Acquaint yourself with their parents. It will make you more comfortable when you call them to ask if a party at their house is going to have parental supervision.

Focus on safety. Make sure your teen understands that you want him and his friends to always engage in safe activities and to look out for each other. If your teen finds that his friends are engaging in unsafe activities, encourage him to let an adult know. Reinforce the idea that expressing concern for his friends' safety doesn't make him a tattletale.

Listen to your teen without rushing to judgment or into a lecture. If you quickly rush to judgment, your teen may start hiding parts of her life from you, especially if she finds out you don't particularly like a friend or group of friends.

Let your teen always know that he can call you if he does not feel safe or needs to get out of a bad situation.

MCCONNELL VISITS FOUR ROSES

Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell (R-Kentucky) makes a point Friday afternoon while addressing members of the Kentucky Distillers' Association at Four Roses Distillery. McConnell discussed a variety of topics, including the importance to Kentucky of the growth of the bourbon industry, national issues and his re-election campaign. He mentioned 'his opponent,' but did not call Alison Lundergan Grimes (D) by name. He did chide her briefly about her most recent dust-up regarding her refusal to tell the 'Courier-Journal's' editorial board whom she voted for in the previous presidential election. 'My opponent even refused to say yesterday how she voted. Democrats are acting like they've never even met the guy,' McConnell said, referring to President Obama. McConnell fielded a variety of questions from the audience, but no one there asked him how he voted in previous presidential elections.

dark. In comparison to the freshman football players at Sayreville, I had it super easy.

More so, I wonder what were these boys thinking? I can imagine them planning a freshman hazing ritual. Did someone suggest a locker rigged to explode with shaving cream on someone's face when opened, perhaps, but it was later deemed not bold enough? Where did it go from harmless fun to someone suggesting a finger in the rectum and others thinking it was a good idea?

Adding insult to injury, the Sayreville football team was a great team. It reportedly made the playoffs for the past 20 seasons and had three state championships in the past four years.

It wasn't uncommon for accomplished players to go on a play for nearby Rutgers University or other colleges, but this incident has dashed the likelihood of these athletes going on the play in college on any type of scholarship, cast a bad light on a football loving community and undoubtedly harmed freshman football players, if the allegations are true. What a mess.

Group discusses substance abuse

From staff reports

Members of the Board of the Anderson County Agency for Substance Abuse Policy (ASAP) sponsored a program at the Anderson County Extension building titled "Community Chat: A Time to Act!" on Oct. 1.

The program was a community forum that provided information and resources about what organizers said is the "epidemic drugs, alcohol and tobacco abuse sweeping our community."

The program began with a message called "Understanding Fetal Alcohol Syndrome" presented by prevention specialist Laura Nagle.

The presentation "Heroin Epidemic/Cause and Effect" speakers were Det. Bryan Taylor of the Anderson County Sheriff's Office and Dr. Mark Tussey, Anderson County coroner.

The "Dangers of Electronic Cigarettes" was presented by M.E. Kobes, director of Bluegrass Prevention, and "Alcopops in a Changing World" was presented by Anderson County High School students and Youth ASAP board members Zach Carmichael and McKenna Lewis.

October is Substance Abuse Prevention Month and the organization has planned several activities. They include Red Ribbon Awareness Week in the schools to raise substance abuse awareness and Block Puppets in the elementary schools for the same purpose.

Water main break in city causes traffic issues, flooded garage

Traffic was temporarily slowed Monday morning on South Main Street while city employees fixed a broken water main.

Ed Ruggles, a homeowner on South Main, said he got a call from his wife Monday saying there was a water main break in front of their house.

When Ruggles got home from a clothing bank in Versailles with his church he discovered a soupy lawn and muddy water running down his driveway and into his garage.

"There's no damage but this more of a time inconvenience than anything else," said Ruggles. "I'm going to have to back everything out of the garage, hook up the hose and wash it all out."

Ruggles said he thinks more thought should be given to the city's infrastructure to avoid incidents like this from happening.

The water main was fixed and the hole in the street was patched by 5 p.m.

There was no boil water advisory because the water main was fixed under pressure without turning off the water.

OBITUARIES

SCOTTIE JAMES BARNETT, 57

Scottie James Barnett, 57, went home to be the Lord, Sunday, Oct. 5, 2014, after a lengthy illness. He was born in Versailles, April 5, 1957, and was a son of the late Gus and Ruby May Barnett.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by three siblings: Jake Barnett, Betty Lou Barnett and Buddy Barnett, and a nephew, B.J. Hardin, and his mother-in-law, Kathy Kyker Baines.

Scottie was an amazing person, who was an inspiration to all who knew him. With each meeting, he left you with a smile on your face and laughter in your heart and a much better person. Those left to cherish his memory are his loving wife of 20 years, Tammy Baines Barnett of Johnson City; a son, Jeremy Barnett, J-town, Kentucky; four brothers, Mason, Lawrenceburg, Don, Shelbyville, Carl (wife Rita) Lawrenceburg, and Charlie (wife Pam), Lawrenceburg; five sisters, Juanita Stivers (husband Don), Shelbyville, Lillian Rafferty (husband Ray), Shelbyville, Martha Stevens, Shelbyville, Glenna Proctor and Peggy Ervin, Versailles; father-in-law, J.J.L. Baines, Sulphur Springs; brother-in-law David Baines (wife Mary) Elizabethtown; a special grandmother-in-law, Mary Kyker; and a special great aunt, Nancy Durham of Jonesborough.

Mr. Barnett worked for several years with Volunteer Blind Industries, Inc.

A celebration of his life will be held at Harvestime Apostolic Church, 721 Broyles Avenue, Erwin, Tennessee 37650, Saturday, November 8, 2014 at 4 p.m. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be sent to Harvestime Apostolic Church (423) 743-6268 or The Johnson City Lions Club, Leader Dogs for the Blind, P.O. Box 902, Johnson City, TN 37605.

DONALD (DON) OWENS, 66

Donald "Don" Owens, 67, went to see Jesus on Saturday, Oct. 11, 2014. He is the husband of 41 years of Imojean Brock Owens.

Born July 20, 1947 in Cawood, he was a son of the late Ed and Allie Cole Owens.

Don was the son of a coalminer and worked for nine years in Harlan County coal mines. He retired from the Topy Corporation in Frankfort. He was a member and deacon of Freedom Baptist Church and enjoyed reading, fishing, yard sales, music, and a student of the Bible.

Owens

Along with his wife, other survivors include two sons, Brian (Melinda) Owens of Lawrenceburg and Brandon (Christina) Owens of Shelbyville, six grandchildren, Devin, Eric, Gavan, JoJo, Beth and Lexie; four brothers, Fred (Brenda) Owens and Ron (Mary Ann) Owens of Lawrenceburg, Clifford Owens of Bardston, and Lawrence Owens of Cawood.

He was preceded in death by a sister, Evelyn Owens, and three brothers, Beryl, Herbert, and Curt Owens.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. today (Wednesday,) Oct. 15 at Freedom Baptist Church, 1010 Powell Taylor Rd., Lawrenceburg, with Bro. Brian Owens, Bro. Chris Parrish, and Bro. Steve Weaver officiating.

Burial will follow in Freedom Baptist Church Cemetery.

Visitation will be at Ritchie & Peach Funeral Home and after 11 a.m. Wednesday at the church.

Pallbearers will be Tim Hall, Roy Metzger, Marty Bertram, Jason Napier, Steven Williams, Brandon Owens and Devin Owens. Members of the Freedom Baptist Men's Sunday school class will serve as honorary bearers.

In memory of Donald Owens memorials are suggested to Freedom Baptist Church, 1010 Powell Taylor Rd., Lawrenceburg, KY 40342.

Home is in charge of the arrangements.

DWIGHT SCOTT PENWELL, 58

Dwight Scott Penwell, 58, of Lawrenceburg, died Friday, Oct. 3, 2014 at his home.

He was a son of the late Lawrence and Edith Scott Penwell.

He is survived by his wife, Emily West Penwell; a son, Zachary Penwell; two stepsons, Ben Shepard and Terry Duckwall; two step daughters, Malory Ridgway and Helen Johnson.

Funeral services were Sunday, Oct. 5 at Blackburn & Ward Funeral Home.

DONNA RITCHEY, 64

Donna Ritchey, 64, of Versailles, died Friday, Oct. 10, 2014 at her home.

She was a daughter of the late Truman Dean and Serene Dennis Cecil.

She is survived by her husband, David Ritchey, and a daughter, Kim Miller.

Funeral services were held Monday, October 13 at Blackburn & Ward Funeral Home.

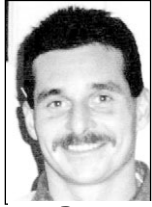

JAMES (JIM) COLE ROSS, 49

James Cole Ross (Jim), 49, son of Jane Ross and the late Roger Ross, died from complications of leukemia on Friday, Oct. 10, 2014 at the St. Elizabeth Hospice Center in Edgewood, Kentucky.

He was born on Feb. 16, 1965, in Lexington, and grew up in Lawrenceburg, graduating from Anderson County High School in 1983. He then attended Eastern Kentucky University while working part-time for Delta Air Lines in Lexington. He then accepted a full-time position with Delta which took him to Atlanta, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky where he spent approximately the next 25 years, most recently living in Florence, Kentucky.

Besides his mother, Jim is survived by two sons, Zane Cole Ross and Niculus Bower Ross, both of Boone County; a brother, Roger Steven Ross (Lynette) of Lawrenceburg; an uncle, Dr. J. Thomas Ross (Sue) of Danville; two aunts, Kaye (Bob) McGlothlin of Williston, Florida, and Sue (John) Litkenhus of Lawrenceburg; a nephew, Roger Samuel Ross of Nashville, Tennessee; and many cousins and cherished friends.

Ross

Jim loved outdoor activities such as hiking and backpacking. He was an avid UK football and basketball fan, but his favorite sports experience was following his sons' soccer games.

Funeral services were October 15 at Linnemann Funeral Homes in Erlanger with the Rev. Jim Wheeler of First Christian Church in Lawrenceburg officiating. A short gravesite service followed at the Lawrenceburg Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, contributions are suggested to the Leukemia/Lymphoma Society or one's favorite charity.

Tornado sirens now cover estimated 90 percent of city

Homeland Security grant helps purchase siren

By Ben Carlson
News staff

Tornado sirens now cover 95 percent of the city, thanks to the newest one placed at Robert B. Turner Elementary School.

The newest of five such sirens inside city limits was activated this week, giving about 90 percent of the city's population base a chance to hear one blow during a tornado warning, according to Emergency Management Director Bart Powell, who announced the new siren Monday afternoon.

Powell said the sirens, which spin 360 degrees when activated, are not designed to alert people who are indoors. Instead, he said they are put in place near outdoor recreation areas.

"They are placed near parks and ball fields ... those sorts of places," Powell said. "The newest one at Turner will cover the playground there and the golf course."

Powell said the new siren was purchased almost exclusively with grant money his office secured from the federal Department of Homeland Security. He said installed, the siren cost just short of $24,000 and that the grant covered $20,000 of the bill. He said the fiscal court and city council will split the difference on the balance.

Other sirens are located at Hill-top Plaza, at the fire hall in Alton, the city fire station on Carlton Drive and behind Walmart.

Because they are used as outside warning systems, he said installing them outside of the city isn't likely to happen.

"It's not feasible to locate them across the entire county," he said,

The newest of five tornado sirens is shown in the front of Robert B. Turner Elementary School.

"but if someone has family outside of the city and hears one go off, they should certainly get in touch with them and let them know."

Anderson County is 203 square miles, Powell said, and if a warning is issued anywhere in the county, the sirens will blow.

The sirens are triggered either through the city's 911 Center or at the Emergency Management Facility located on US 127 Bypass. Powell said activating them comes from a tornado warning being issued by the National Weather Service, if a trained weather spotter calls in rotation or if it's spotted on his agency's Doppler radar system.

Powell said when people hear a siren blow, it's "time to seek shelter, now."

Except, that is, on Wednesdays at noon.

"We test them each week at that time," he said, "to ensure they are working properly."

Powell said if inclement weather is in the forecast, the tests will be delayed to make sure not to send false alarms to the public.

Firefighters plan Oct. 18 Cruise-in to benefit children with special needs

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

It's been a long-standing tradition for Anderson County firefighters to participate in an annual WHAS Crusade for Children fundraiser, but this year they decided to do something different with a cruise-in car show.

Hosted by the Anderson County Fire District and American Legion Post 34, the event is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 18 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the American Legion Park on Broadway.

Anderson County firefighter Robert Gresham said last year they were able to raise $13,137, and they hope to double that amount this year.

"Traditionally the Crusade for Children partners with local fire departments in Indiana and Kentucky," said Gresham. "The beauty of the Crusades is that any money raised by the fire department goes back to help children locally."

According to the Crusade for Children's website, about half of the money it raises each year comes from fire departments in the two states.

WHAS Crusade for Children has been around since 1954. The proceeds go toward community grants for hospitals, schools, churches and other agencies to assist children with special needs. Last year, more than $5 million in grants were awarded to agencies such as CASA of the Bluegrass, Hospice of the Bluegrass, Kosair Children's Hospital and Learning Disabilities Association of Kentucky, among others.

In its first 60 years, the Crusade raised more than $160 million.

Gresham said the car show will be judged by individual donations raised at each car. The car owner with the most Crusade donations will be deemed "crowd favorite" and awarded a trophy.

Misery Manor on pace for record crowds

From staff reports
Misery Manor continued to scare up huge crowds last weekend at Eagle Lake Convention Center, and is on tap again this Friday and Saturday with nightly shows starting at 7:30.

Sheriff Troy Young, who organizes the annual haunted house to support Shop With a Cop, said additional guides were added last weekend to handle the huge crowds. "We added some people to help move people through a little quicker," Young said, adding that an estimated 750 people visited the haunted house last Saturday night.

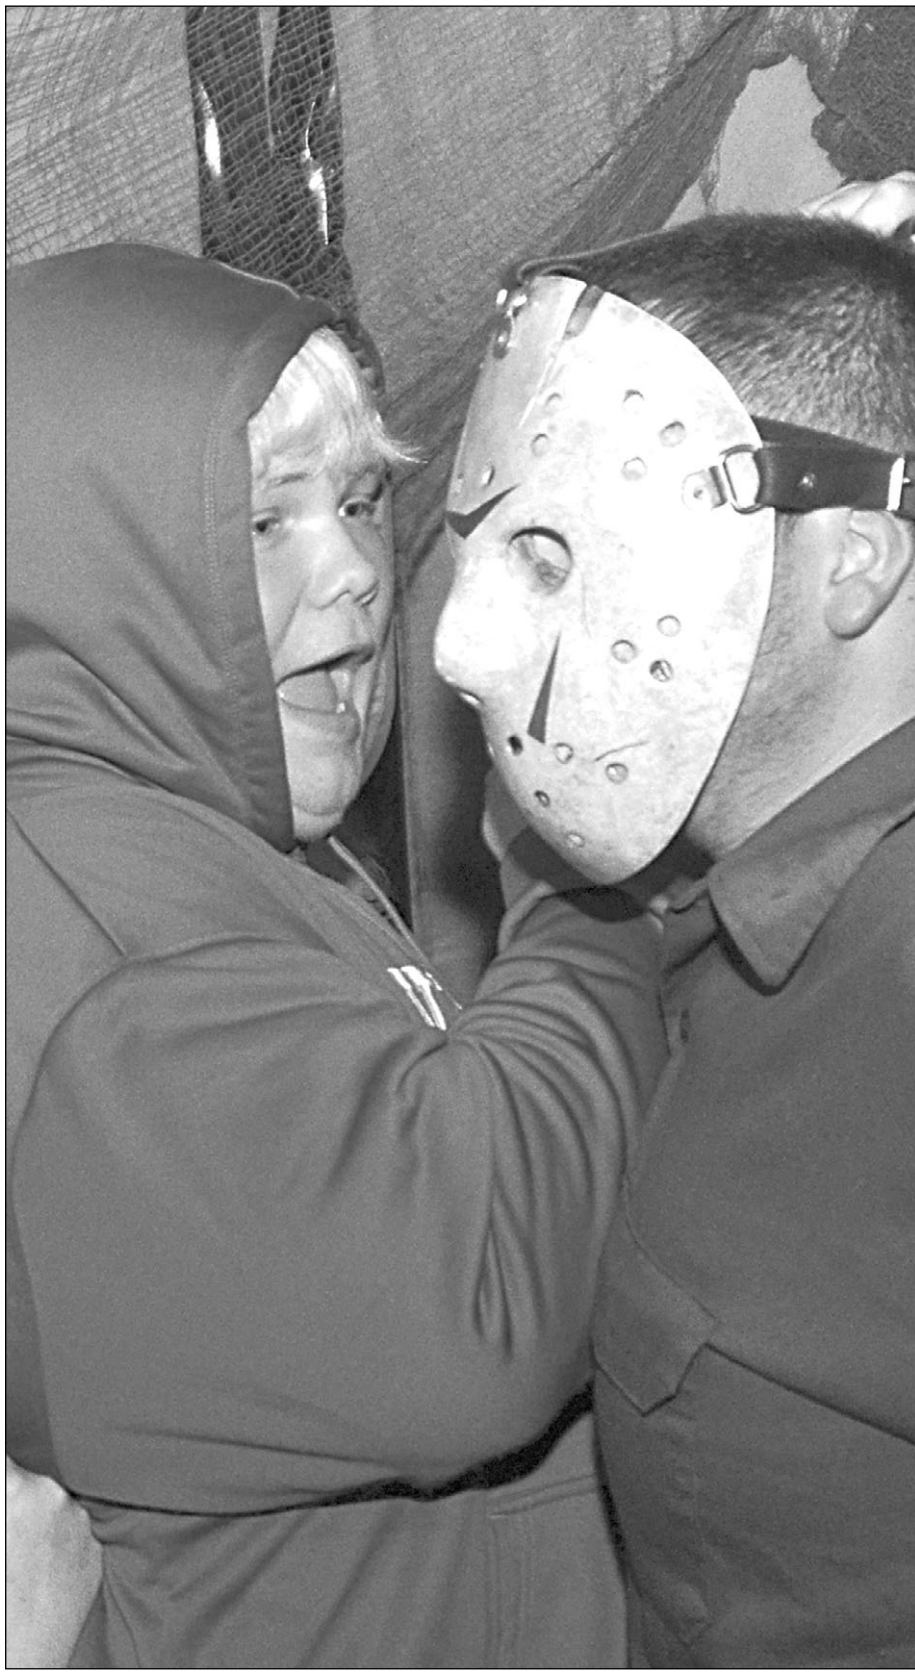

At that pace, Young said, the fundraiser should easily surpass last year's total visitors of around 4,000.

"It has been a tremendous turnout already," Young said.

Admission is $5, and all net proceeds are used to purchase Christmas gifts for children in need in Anderson County.

Stephen Gaither of Sebastian Sign and Crane Inc. places the new Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg sign on the building last Wednesday afternoon.

Christian Academy gets new sign, other renovations

Administrator discusses updates, attracting more students

Shelley Spillman
News staff

The Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg received a new look and roof during the past week.

Workers with Sebastian Sign and Crane installed a new sign last Wednesday, which features large white letters that spell out the academy's name across the front of the building. It previously had only a standalone sign near South Main Street.

Jason Gribbins, Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg administrator, said the new sign gives the school more visibility.

The sign is one of many renovations at the Christian Academy.

Though he has only been administrator since July, Gribbins said he has big plans for the school's growth. A recent military retiree, Gribbins holds an education specialist/leadership degree from Liberty University, a Master of Arts in Christian leadership degree from Liberty Baptist Theological Seminary and a MBA from Touro University. "Academically, we're sound. So now we're bringing the facility up to what's needed," he said.

Roofers with All Through the House worked Wednesday afternoon to replace the roof on the building.

The Christian Academy is also working to expand athletic programs and technology initiatives. The small field in the back of the building will be expanded to allow students to play football once again.

Last year, the Christian Academy boys' basketball team won the state tournament in its division. Gribbins said the building renovations are a small part of overall effort of expansion.

There are currently about 125 students enrolled at the school from preschool through high school. In the next three to five years, Gribbins said he plans on enrollment figures reaching to around 200 students. In 10 years, the goal is to reach 500 students.

Gribbins explained why academics are thriving at the Christian Academy and the administration is able to focus its attention on other necessities. He said the average ACT score is a 26, many of the students get scholarships, and the student-to-teacher ratio is low, allowing teachers to administer more individualized instruction.

Since the Christian Academy has been established at its current location on North Main Street for three years, Gribbins said the new focus is building renovations and program expansions.

"We're focusing on wise investments in the future of the school," said Gribbins.

Students collect, donate canned goods to food pantry

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

Anderson County High School students started out with the simple goal of providing more canned goods for the food pantry this year during their annual Stuff the Bus fundraiser.

Last year, students raised approximately $4,000 worth of canned goods and non-perishable food items. This year, the students shattered their record, collecting an estimated $10,000 to $12,000 worth of canned goods.

It was a combined effort between the girls' and boys' basketball teams, cheerleaders and the student mentor group Peers Assisting With Student Success). Approximately 60 students took turns soliciting donations from the public for six hours at Walmart and Kroger.

Anderson County High School student Tyler Brothers said he was blown away by the support they received from the community. He said some people just handed him money to shop for them.

Walmart also donated four pallets of canned goods toward Stuff the Bus.

"It was a new experience but it was pretty cool. Helping the community serves a good purpose for everyone," said Brothers, who participated in Stuff the Bus for the first time this year.

High school student Dillon Harper has been working with the Open Hands Food Pantry for several years through his church, Ninevah Christian. He said he's participated in food drives for eight years and sometimes even drives donations to the food pantry. Harper said he enjoys working with the local food pantry because all the food goes back to helping people in the community.

"I think it's really cool we got more donations than last year," Anderson County High School student Corrin Robinson.

The volunteers at the Open Hands Food Pantry were appreciative of the students' efforts.

"The students showed a great deal of motivation and enthusiasm. We appreciate the care they show for the community," said volunteer Katie Howard.

Clay Birdwhistell, high school youth service center coordinator, said he was proud of what the students accomplished in just a few short hours. He's not sure how they will top this next year, but they're up for the challenge.

God speaks to his followers through hardships

In the summer of 2010 author and atheist

Christopher Hitchens was diagnosed with cancer. In an article he wrote for "Vanity Fair," with his customary brusqueness, Hitchens described his battle with the disease that would eventually take his life:

"I am badly oppressed by a gnawing sense of waste. I had real plans for my next decade and felt I'd worked hard enough to earn it. Will I really not live to see my children married [or] to watch the World Trade Center rise again? ... To the dumb question 'why me?' the cosmos barely bothers to return the reply: Why not?"

I sometimes wish I were suffering in a good cause, or risking my life for the good of others, instead of just being a gravely endangered patient.

Allow me to inform you, though, that when you sit in a room with a set of other finalists, and kindly people bring a huge transparent bag of poison to plant into your arm [his chemotherapy treatment] and you either read or don't read a book while the venom sack gradually empties into your system ... You feel swamped with passivity and impotence: dissolving in powerlessness like a sugar lump in water."

Mr. Hitchens never minced words, whether in his dogged defense of his atheistic worldview or in his description of the utter hopelessness with which so many face cancer. I am sure that many share his sentiment; even though they may not possess the eloquence to describe it is such a morbidly poetic way.

But not everyone looks at their cancer in the way that Mr. Hitchens did.

My dad was diagnosed in the spring of 2008 with colon cancer that has since spread to various parts of his body. He has endured several surgeries, radiation and chemotherapy.

It has been a long road to travel.

My dad is the most humble man I know. Yet his quiet demeanor has spoken loudly over the last six years.

His is an example of a quiet trust and simple faith in the God of creation.

His faith in the Lord Jesus Christ has been an example to me all my life, but the validity of his faith has never been as evident as it has been during his battle with cancer.

His pastor recently shared with me that the one lesson my parents have taught their congregation is how to suffer well. Although he has never enjoyed having cancer, he has exhibited having joy in the midst of cancer. All people suffer to some extent, but not all suffer well. My dad has taught me, and others, how to trust Jesus when life stinks.

Recently, his doctor gave us the expected report that there is nothing more that can be done to combat this illness. Hospice care has begun and reality is sinking in - yet he still contends that, as he told his doctor after receiving the news, "the Lord will take care of me." Yes we wept, but we don't weep as people without hope. God is still sovereign; Jesus is still Lord; the Spirit is still working.

I don't know what will happen in the coming days, weeks, and months. But, like dad has taught me, I won't worry - I will trust that God will work all this out for good (Romans 8:28). Unlike Mr. Hitchens who bemoaned his powerlessness, my dad has taught me that in our weakest moments is when God's strength is most evident: "For the sake of Christ, then, I am content with weaknesses, insults, hardships, persecutions, and calamities. For when I am weak, then I am strong" (2 Corinthians 12:10).

CHURCH BRIEFS

Fall Festival at Farmdale Baptist
Farmdale Baptist Church will host its annual Fall Festival on Saturday, Oct. 18 from 3 to 6 p.m. The event will include games, a hayride, a cake walk, pumpkin decorating and pony rides, the church announced.

Door prizes and candy will be given to children, and food will be provided at no cost.

"Wear your favorite country outfit and come on over," organizers said in a news release.

Benefit concert planned

A concert to benefit Lawrenceburg Seventh-Day Adventist Church and the Anderson Humane Society is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25 at Kim's Shear Talent, located at 1020 Eagle Lake Drive, organizers announced.

David Pitt is scheduled to perform. Refreshments will be available.

Tickets are $10 and donations are appreciated, organizers said. Proceeds will split between the church, Humane Society the Pitt.

Donations of Pedigree canned dog food, Scoop kitty litter, blankets, cat food and animal toys are also needed, organizers said.

Since seating is limited, contact Kim's Shear Talent at 502-859-2300 to reserve a spot.

Grimes ordained at Alton Baptist

Kris Grimes was recently ordained at Alton Baptist Church, according to a news release.

Grimes, who grew up in Alton, has served the church as youth pastor, deacon, Sunday school teacher and volunteer worship leader. He currently serves as worship pastor.

Grimes is a graduate of Anderson County High School, Centre College (B.S.) in Danville, and the University of Kentucky (Ph.D.). He is currently pursuing a degree in ministry at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville.

ONE BREATH AWAY FROM ETERNITY

All of us are one breath away from eternity, so accept Jesus as your Lord and Savior, today.

Just what does the above mean? Is it just mental accent where we say the words, "I accept Jesus as my Lord and Savior?"

The best way to LEARN what it means to accept Jesus is to turn to Scripture. Jesus himself said, "If you keep my commandments, you will abide in My love, just as I have kept My Father's commandments and abide in His love." Did Jesus have anything to say about how to become His follower? Will we abide in His love and accept what He says? Jesus said, "All authority has been given to Me in heaven and earth. God therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teachings them to observe all things I have commanded you; and lo I am with you always, even to the ends of the age." Amen. (Matthew 28:18-20).

As one reads the above and the book of Acts (often called the book of conversions), you see that salvation is more than saying words. Acts 2:37-47; Acts 8:12; 8:26-39; 9:1-18; Acts 10; Acts 16:14-15, 30-34. All of these accounts show not what they said, but DID. These converts heard the word of God, believed in it, repented of their sins, confessed faith in Christ and were immersed into Christ for the forgiveness of their sins. In so doing, they kept the Lord's commandments and abide in His love.

Lion Club to host magic, variety show Saturday
The Lawrenceburg Lions Club will host its annual magic and variety show at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 18, featuring illusionist Dinky Gowen. The event will also feature Adrienne Phoenix, described by organizers as one of Kentucky's newest rising stars. The event will feature comedy, magic, escapes, ventriloquism and more. Tickets are $8 in advance, $10 at the door, with children 5 and under admitted free. Proceeds will go toward the club's efforts to raise funds to provide eyeglasses, eye care and eye treatments to those in need. Gowen has been performing at schools, corporate events and fundraisers for over 30 years, organizers said, and is a featured performer at Beech Bend Amusement Park in Bowling Green. His production company, Gowen Productions, produces over 500 shows a year including The Magic Show, Wild Bill Hiccup's Wild West Show and Beech Bend Blitz: The Live Game Show.

Youth essay deadline is approaching Nov. 1
Post 4075 Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary are sponsoring two youth contests, according to a press release. The "Voice of Democracy Scholarship Competition" is open to students in grades nine to 12. It is a three to five minutes audio-essay on the subject of "why veterans are important to our nation's history and future." First and second place winners will receive $500 and $250 respectively and be eligible for district, state and national scholarships. The second contest is the Patriots Pen Youth Essay Writing Contest for students in grades six, seventh and eighth grade. The theme is "why I appreciate American's veterans." The student must write a 300-400 word essay on this patriotic theme. First and second place winner receive $100 and $50 respectively and be eligible for district, state and national scholarships. The deadline to enter for both contests is Nov. 1. For more information, contact Larry Montgomery at 502-330-7520 or your child's school counselor.

Boy Scouts to host rummage sale Saturday
Boy Scout Troop 37 will sponsor a rummage sale Saturday, Oct. 18, from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. at First Christian Church, 300 S. Main St., Lawrenceburg. The troop is collecting donated items to sell today, Thursday and Friday from 7 to 8 p.m. at the church. Donated items can be brought the day of the sale, too. "Now is the time to rid your garage or basement of some of those items that you know you're likely not going to use again, but maybe exactly what someone else needs," organizers said in a news release. To have large items picked up, call 502-352-9088. Proceeds will benefit the troop's camping program.

Girl scout "Scare off hunger" food drive
Local Girl Scouts will collect food and monetary donations for Open Hands Food Pantry on Saturday, Oct. 25 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Kroger and Save-A-Lot, the organization announced. The event is titled "Scare off Hunger," and will feature Girl Scouts dressed in Halloween attire to accept canned goods. Monetary donations will also be accepted.

Kelia Sullivan, left, won the title of Young Miss at the Salvisa Ruritan Days Pageant on Sept. 20. She is a daughter of David and Tiua Chilton Sullivan of Salvisa. Her cousin, Sagan Chilton Holtzclaw, was the second runner up. She is a daughter of Chris and Charlotte Chilton Holtzclaw of Salvisa. Both girls are students at Robert B. Turner Elementary School.

Deadline set for USDA program

From staff reports

The USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Kentucky is encouraging landowners, farmers and producers to visit their local NRCS office now to receive information and apply for conservation technical assistance and possible financial funding opportunities, the agency announced. The application process is continuous, but funding selections for specific programs are made throughout the year. For the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) the first application cutoff period date for consideration for 2015 funds is Nov. 21. Applications received after that date will be held until the next application cut off period, which will be March 20, 2015. EQIP is a conservation program that provides financial and technical assistance to farmers and ranchers who face threats to soil, water, air and related natural resources on their land. Through EQIP, NRCS develops contracts with agricultural producers to voluntarily implement conservation practices. Those engaged in livestock or agricultural production and owners of non-industrial private forestland are eligible. Eligible land includes cropland, pastureland, private non-industrial forestland and other farm or ranch lands. EQIP offers several national and state initiatives which include the Seasonal High Tunnel Initiative, Organic Initiative, On-Farm Energy Initiative, Wildlife Initiative and Forestry Initiative. Interested land users should visit their local NRCS office to find out what opportunities are available through each of these EQIP Initiatives. "We're getting an earlier start on EQIP contracts this year to give farmers more time to install practices," said Deena Wheby, assistant state conservationist for programs. All recipients of assistance are required to develop a conservation plan. Conservation planning is an integral part of the conservation process. Landowners should work with a conservation planner to develop the plan based on the landowner's operational goals to improve the productivity, sustainability and profitability of their operation. "Good conservation planning helps us identify the practices that will best address a landuser's resource concerns," Wheby said. The conservation plan will serve as a roadmap to a variety of technical assistance and financial assistance through EQIP as well as other options available to the landowner. The local office is located at 145 W. Woodford St. For more information visit your local office or NRCS on the web at www.ky.nrcs.usda.gov or contact your local NRCS service center in Shelbyville at 502-633-3640 x3.

JASON DENNY Re-Elect
ANDERSON COUNTY CLERK

A good old rivalry with all at stake

Bearcats-Flyers rarely disappoint

There's nothing like a good ole knock-down, drag-out rivalry to get the juices going. Think Cats vs. Cards. Duke vs. UNC. Packers-Bears. Yankees-Red Sox. Colonels vs. Pacers. Guess I got carried away a bit. I guess those of us old enough to remember that last one can only hope it revives sometime soon.

And then there is the little shindig scheduled for Franklin County's Benny Watkins Field Friday night. Anderson County vs. Franklin County.

Or, if you live a bit north of Alton, you would call it Franklin County vs. Anderson County.

Either way, it gets the juices flowing when the two high schools clash, regardless of the sport.

And, for the last four years, they've been football rivals with the Class 5A, District 6 rivals with the district title on the line every time they've met in the regular season. Last year, the teams met again in the Region 3 championship game.

And since they were grouped together in 2011, they've split right down the middle, with both schools taking two games.

It used to not be that way. And, frankly, it might have been a stretch to call the Bearcat and Flyer football programs "rivals," given the infrequency of meetings. They'd lined up twice in the early 1970s, then played again from 1997 through 2006 as district rivals. Franklin had taken 10 of the 12 meetings and often by a one-sided score.

Rivalry? Ummmmm, no thanks. But it was so intense in other sports that you just knew that the juices would be flowing in October after a realignment grouped the Bearcats and Flyers together again in 2011.

Football has been like nearly every other sport with a few over-zealous fans on both sides going beyond good-natured smack talk. Over the years, there have been some isolated incidents among players, but for the most part, it has been little more than an intense border war.

Back in 2011, an overflow crowd that some guessed was pushing 4,000 fans packed Anderson's Warford Stadium and saw Franklin County's Ryan Timmons put on a show. The Flyers prevailed 56-24, but Anderson might have gotten the last laugh as the Bearcats regrouped and advanced all the way to the state championship game. Franklin was eliminated in the second round of the playoffs when the Flyers gave up a state record 745 yards rushing to Conner.

Then, in 2012, Franklin got the last smile. Anderson had stayed with the heavily-favored Flyers all night and had taken a 52-50 lead - defense anyone? - on Joe Rose's field goal with 14 seconds to play.

On the ensuing kickoff, the Bearcats tried to punch the ball away from Timmons, but to not avail. He took a handoff from a teammate and ended the game with an 80-yard kickoff return to make the final 56-52.

Then there was 2013, when the Flyers jumped out to 14-0 and 21-7 leads, but Anderson rallied for a 35-21 win for the district title. Some point to Franklin's botched fake punt on the Flyer 14 late in the first half as the turning point, but the statistics indicate that Anderson had begun to wrest control of the game about eight minutes earlier. They just did not have the lead yet.

The Bearcats scored after the Franklin miscue and won going away.

When the teams met again at Warford Stadium for the regional title, the lead changed hands four times, the last coming when Zach Carmichael scored with 3:02 to play, giving Anderson a 31-28 win.

It will likely be more of the same Friday night. The teams were picked as the top teams in District 6 before the season started and have given little indication that things will be different.

Anderson has quietly been rolling

Mud fun as Bearcats blank Colts

Martin scores three times

NICHOLASVILLE - As the scoreboard clock ticked off the final moments of Anderson County's 36-0 romp at West Jessamine Friday night, some Bearcat players decided it was time to look like they'd seen plenty of action during the alternating drizzle and downpours.

They dove in the muck along their bench, sliding several feet and being covered with mud in the process.

Such is life when a football team wins its fourth straight game and does so even more handily than the scoreboard could indicate.

That's Anderson County football seven weeks into the 2014 season. The Bearcats slogged their way to a 5-2 record and stand 3-0 in district play with the annual showdown with Franklin County looming ahead this week.

But last Friday, it was business, all business despite the late game antics on the sideline.

Anderson scored the first two times it had the ball, driving 41 and 61 yards for the scores. Fullback Bryndon Labhart bulled his way up the middle to make it 7-0 with eight minutes left in the first quarter, then Ryan Martin took an option pitch and scooted 4 yards around right end less than four minutes later.

Things were going so good that after Martin's touchdown, a muffed snap on the extra point attempt turned into a 2-point conversion. Brayden Russell, who took over the hold duties when Dusty Puckett was

Lady Cat rally falls short in season finale

By John Herndon

Anderson County's rally came up just short.

The Lady Bearcats spotted Bethlehem a 3-0 lead, then put together a spirited comeback only to fall 3-2 in girls' soccer action last Wednesday.

It was the regular-season finale for the Lady Bearcats, who entered 30th District Tournament play at 9-10-1 against a rugged schedule.

Bethlehem, also capping its regular season, entered 19th District play at 12-6.

"They are a very good team," said Anderson coach Jason Earnest. "They beat Oldham County (2-1 on Sept. 15) and they are a very good passing team."

The Banshees took advantage of a pair of Anderson mistakes to go up 2-0, then added to their lead with a breakaway goal.

Anderson, however, started its comeback when Taylor Harley finished a break midway through the second half. The Lady Bearcats got within 3-2 when Madeline Wilson scored on a penalty kick with about 10 minutes to go.

The Lady Bearcats had several chances in the final 10 minutes, including a shot from Allie Johnson that just missed left and had Earnest grimacing on the sideline.

It was that close. "In the first half, it looked like neither team was ready to play and both were just going through the motions," Earnest said. "I told the girls at halftime that we needed to pick up the intensity."

Anderson did just that but could not completely track down the visitors.

Bearcats rock at right time, defeat Station, Spencer

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Whether a late season surge translates into tournament success remained to be seen, but there was little doubt about the happiness engulfing the Anderson County High School boys' soccer team Thursday night.

The Bearcats had just beaten 30th District rival Spencer County for their second win in as many nights. The 3-1 victory over Spencer and a 4-0 whipping of Bryan Station the night before were also the only victories for the Bearcats during the regular season.

Anderson entered the post season at 2-10-2 and was to have played Shelby County in the semi-final round of the 30th District Tournament. The tourney is being held at the Shelby County Athletics Complex. Results from that game will be posted online as soon as possible.

"I think we are coming along real well," said Anderson coach Khamisi Campbell. "I am seeing a lot of better performances by the kids and I am seeing a lot more progress."

Lady Cats survive Collins upset bid, advance in district

Casciola scores game-winner in final moments

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

SHELBYVILLE - Regardless of the sport, there is always a time when teams can think of one trite, but true, phrase.

Survive and advance. Monday, the Anderson County girls' soccer team survived in a fashion that might prompt Hollywood to invite the Lady Bearcats to star in their own survival reality show.

Anderson County High School girls' soccer coach Jason Earnest, right, and his brother, Jamey, an assistant coach for the Lady Bearcats, reflect the tension of the moments just before the Lady Bearcats scored the game-winning goal against Collins in the 30th District Tournament Monday night.

The Lady Bearcats defeated Collins, 2-1, in the semi-final round of the 30th District tournament on a night when little was going right and a season was on the line. Anderson's Grace Casciola drilled the game-winner from about 20 yards out with 2:04 to play.

The Lady Bearcats move on to the district championship game, scheduled for tonight, Oct. 15 at the Shelby County Athletic Complex. The Lady Bearcats will play host Shelby County, a 2-0 winner over Spencer County in Monday's second game.

Anderson goes into the final at 10-10-1.

Anderson, a heavy favorite in the district opener, was dangerously close to going home very early. "We survived," a relieved Anderson coach Jason Earnest said. "That is about all you can say. We survived."

For much of the match, Anderson dominated possession. The Lady Bearcats repeatedly got good looks, including a pair of open net opportunities, but nothing to show for them. They pounded the net, but Collins either recovered to thwart the Anderson attack or simply dodged repeated bullets.

"Part of it was Collins," Earnest said. "You have to give them a lot of credit. They played their hearts out. Then the longer they were able to hang around, the more confident they became."

Anderson County's Grace Casciola, left, races Collins' Abby Beard for the ball during the first half of Monday's 30th District Tournament semifinal. Casciola's goal with 2:04 to play provided the winning margin in Anderson's 2-1 victory.

Anderson had seemingly taken control early when Taylor Harley finished a beautiful pass from Evan Kays on the right wing just 15 minutes in.

But Anderson had already missed on some good looks, giving Collins, which Anderson had routed 5-2 earlier this year, confidence. Finally, the Titans got through when Shelbi Poehlein connected on a free kick from 35 yards.

"She had a perfect shot," Earnest said. "She had it in the corner of the net and Billie (Clark, the Anderson goalie) could not reach it."

"They had one shot the first half and one goal."

But with Anderson's offense sputtering, things turned into a game even though the Lady Bearcats appeared to be dominant. "We were having such problem scoring and then that just gave them more confidence," Earnest said.

Finally, Casciola came through after a shot bounded away from a gridlock at the net.

"We were able to get it back to Grace and she came up firing," Earnest said.

Tate Thompson took the pass from in front of the net, then got the ball back to Casciola for the score.

"That was a big moment for Grace," Earnest said. "I told the girls that things were not going their way but they kept coming back and kept shooting. Finally one went in."

And Anderson survived.

Collins sours Lady Cat Senior Night, takes top seed

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Collins quieted any talk about Anderson County being the top Eighth Region volleyball team without the word "Oldham" in its name last Tuesday.

The Titans got just a few more balls in and made a few less errors as Collins took a 3-1 win over the host Lady Bearcats in the match to determine the top seed in the 30th District Tournament later this month.

At press time, it appeared that Collins claimed the tie-breaker for the top seed. Anderson and Collins split two matches during the season with each winning on the other team's home court.

Collins ended Anderson's 13-match winning streak as well.

The Lady Titans took a decision that saw only the second set decided by anything other than a 25-23 score. Collins rebounded from a first set loss to win the second game 25-20.

It was as back-and-forth as one would expect from teams fighting it out for regular-season district supremacy and the top seed in the district tourney.

Neither team built more than a six-point margin at any time. Several volleys lasted so long that the ball passed over the net 10 times or more.

And in the end, Collins simply made a play or two more.

"That was one great match for both teams," said Anderson coach Bob Hardin.

About the only things that went wrong for Anderson were the fact that it was the Lady Bearcats' Senior Night.

"We are so proud of our girls, especially after having Senior Night emotions attached to the evening," Hardin said. "Both teams made big plays all night long. We played about as good a match as we have seen all year."

take the first set, 25-23, a set that featured eight ties and seven lead changes.

The Lady Cats seemed to be cruising along with a 16-10 lead in the second set when libero Ally Hayes dove for a free ball. Hayes hit her head on the floor, prompting the Anderson coaching staff to check for a concussion.

Hayes was out briefly, but it was long enough for Collins to regroup for the 25-20 win in the second set.

"We had a lot of momentum going and then when Ally Hayes made an outstanding play to save a bad pass. When she rolled, she hit her head on the floor. ... That moment slowed us down and Collins ran off several points in a row," Hardin said.

Anderson controlled much of the third set but Collins rallied from a 22-19 deficit behind a strong service from Koti Weaver, then Anderson led 20-17 in the fourth set before Collins rallied.

"All I can say is it was a great match," Hardin said.

Collins' Michaela Stoudemire repeatedly riddled the Lady Bearcats with kills and strong hits. Collins' Macayla Martin dominated early, but Anderson's front line players - Rachel Swartz, Emily Couch, Katie Crabtree and Katie Carmichael - repeatedly blocked Collins' attacks.

"They had trouble getting balls down as did we," Hardin said.

Hardin said he reminded his team there is still a week to go in the season and that the Lady Bearcats' 21-6 record is the best in Anderson County history. The 13-match winning streak is the longest in school history.

Lady Bearcats whip Shelby

Anderson defeated Shelby County in four sets last Monday, the second time the Lady Bearcats prevailed against the Rockets this season.

After dropping the first set, 25-20, Anderson recovered to take the next three, 25-19, 25-22 and 25-21.

"They have improved from our first match (on Sept. 8)," Hardin said.

Anderson won that match in four sets as well.

"We played good but not our best and came out with a victory," Hardin continued.

Katy Carmichael turned in a season-best 11 kills while Katie Crabtree scored 11.

District tourney next week

At press time, the official pairings and schedule for the 30th District Tournament, to be held at Shelby County High School, had not been released.

The tourney is tentatively set to begin Monday, Oct. 20.

Complete tournament information will be posted at www.theandersonnews.com as soon as it becomes available.

Against Spencer, the Bearcats broke a 1-1 tie with 26 minutes to play then held on and added a late insurance goal to claim the No. 3 seed in the district tournament.

Anderson's Dalton Wells found the net in the first half to open the scoring, then Shane Quire gave the Bearcats the lead for good in the 54th minute. Spencer's goalkeeper was unable to snag a ball he had dived for, leaving an open net for Quire to drive the ball home.

The Bearcats sealed things when Clayton Barnett scored with 4:39 to play.

"There were still a couple of nervous moments," Campbell said of the 26 minutes after Quire had tallied. "We did a better job in the second half maintaining possession."

Campbell did note that it was a fun Senior Night for his team. "Some of the seniors had the opportunity to have fun and play out of position and enjoy themselves."

Last Wednesday, the Bearcats got their first win of the year, a 4-0 whipping of Bryan Station in Lexington.

"It was a pretty good game overall," Campbell said. "We were well-organized. We looked very good in possession."

"We took care of the ball against Bryan Station. I was pleased with the results."

District tourney underway

The 30th District Tournament was to begin Tuesday after press time.

Collins was to play Spencer in the opener with Anderson taking on host Shelby County in the second game.

The final is set for Thursday, Oct. 16 at 7 p.m.

More than pride at stake for Bearcats -Flyers

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

For Anderson County and Franklin County, the stakes riding on Friday's football game at Benny Watkins Field are high, but simple.

If Anderson wins, the Bearcats clinch the Class 5A, District 6 championship for the second consecutive year, regardless of what happens the rest of the season.

With two weeks left in the district season, the Bearcats are the only team without a blemish on their district record. If Anderson defeats Franklin, every other district team would have at least two district losses, meaning that the Bearcats' district finale with East Jessamine would have no bearing on the district championship.

However that game could have a huge meaning for the remaining three spots in the state playoffs.

Anderson could also lose at Franklin and still win the district, but that would require the Bearcats to beat East Jessamine and Franklin lose to an injury-depleted Montgomery County.

A Franklin win would not guarantee the Flyers the district title, but would put them in a good spot for the top seed. If Franklin defeats Anderson, then beats Montgomery the final week of district play, Franklin wins the district with the Anderson-East Jessamine winner placing second and getting the first round home game.

If Franklin and East Jessamine both beat Anderson and if Woodford County wins its final two district games, Franklin wins the district and a three-way tie would exist for second place.

There is also one scenario that would result in a four-way tie at the top of the district. It would include Franklin splitting its final two district games along with Anderson losing two and Woodford winning two.

Confused enough? Not only are all those scenarios mathematically possible, they are not out of the realm of possibility.

If two teams are tied for a spot the winner of their game gets the higher seed. However, if three or more teams are tied for a spot, the tie is broken by adding the number of wins by opponents of the teams involved in the tie, excluding games played against each other.

For Anderson County, the bottom line is clear as the Bearcats control their own fate in regard to a district championship. Franklin County also controls its own fate, but needs one more win than the Bearcats.

If a tie-breaker comes into play, Franklin County currently holds the upper hand in the calculations. After that it is muddled. Anderson would be second right now with East Jessamine third, but East could pick up major ground and conceivably be the top seed if it wins out.

However, for Anderson, everything is very clear. If the Bearcats win Friday night, nothing else affects them

Regional playoffs

Seedings are important as the first two rounds of the regional playoffs will be held at the home of the higher-seeded teams. District winners are guaranteed the first two rounds will be played at home. Second-seeded teams get a first-round game at home.

The regional championship game will be held at the District 6 representative. If the teams playing for the regional title are from the same district, the regional final will be held at the highest-seeded team.

Last year, District 5 was to host, but Anderson and Franklin advanced to the final, with Anderson hosting due to winning the regular-season district title.

along. The Bearcats have won four straight games by a total score of 156-40. The Anderson defense has pitched a pair of 36-0 shutouts against Mercer County and West Jessamine. To the rest of the state, that might draw a collective yawn, but in this age of high-powered offenses, they are only the fifth and sixth shutouts of the Mark Peach Era at Anderson and the first time since 1996 that Anderson has notched two goose eggs in a season.

Other than a fumble-fest at Montgomery County, the Bearcats have been efficient with the ball as well.

A telling stat is that for the season, Anderson is scoring 83.3 percent of the time it gets to the opponents' 20 yard line. The Bearcats are limiting the opposition to scoring just 40 percent of the time when they get close.

The Bearcats are averaging better than 38 points a game, while Franklin comes in at just under 30. Franklin is giving up just over 16 points a contest, Anderson 21.

What that means Friday isn't clear. "Every game is different," Peach is fond of saying.

Breaks and the weather will be factors. And even with Timmons now catching passes for the rejuvenated Kentucky Wildcats, the Flyers still have quality personnel. Through five games, Barrett Sanderson had completed over 60 percent of his passes for 996 yards.

"He's a very crafty quarterback," Peach said.

Receiver Landon Hurst was averaging better than 21 yards in his 13 catches, but Demarcus Kennedy had been Sanderson's top pass-catcher with 17 receptions.

Those stats did not include the Flyers' own turnover fiasco at East Jessamine, a 39-21 loss, or a 14-6 win at Woodford County last week.

The computer polls make Anderson a slight pick, but it's a rivalry game. Anything can happen.

And it's close enough that no one knows what will.

Series tentative for 2015

The regular four-year realignment for Kentucky high school football that takes effect in 2015 has moved Franklin to Class 4A while Anderson remains a Class 5A school.

Peach said that even though they will be playing in different classifications, the schools have agreed to continue playing. "That's the plan, at least," he said.

Several scheduling factors could change that plan but the schools are trying to continue the series.

injured the week before, could not come down with the snap, but picked the ball up and ran for the end zone.

The Bearcats were never threatened. West Jessamine garnered only 66 yards of offense, 30 coming after Anderson coach Mark Peach started substituting liberally. Anderson got up 36-0 when Chris Toomey scored from six yards out to cap the first drive of the second half.

Peach, however, felt his team was ready to go from the outset.

"I was so proud of our defense," he said. "They shut West Jessamine down. Last week against Montgomery County, (running back Daniel) Snider had 255 yards on 15 carries."

Snider ran for 52 yards Friday. West Jessamine did not earn a first down in the first quarter and had only four for the game. Anderson moved the chains 16 times.

Martin scored twice more, taking a 33-yard pass from Zachary Carmichael and duplicating his first tally by going around right end to make it 29-0 at the half.

It was redemption for Martin, who had fumbled a punt at the Anderson 36, but the Colts netted only three yards before being stopped on fourth down.

Moments later, Carmichael fumbled the ball away at the West Jessamine 32, but the Colts could not handle prosperity, giving it back two plays later as Bryce Edmondson pounced on the ball.

On the very next play, Carmichael hit a wide open Martin, who ran untouched to paydirt.

"That is the thing about this group," Peach said. "You can have things going against you and they put it behind them."

Martin, a junior, scored a career-best three touchdowns, running for 52 yards along with his one catch. "We have been doing it by committee all year and tonight it was Martin who stepped up," Peach said. "On that pass, they executed it perfectly."

Carmichael threw only four passes, completing two for 81 yards. However a 48-yard bomb to Russell on Anderson's second possession opened things up for the Bearcats, who ran for 256 yards as a team.

"After Zach completed that pass to Brayden, they went four-deep (in the secondary) all night," Peach said.

second half drive with the starters on the field, the clock mercifully ran for the final 20:42. The number of clean white jerseys indicated that Peach was giving all a chance to shine.

"It's always nice to get the young kids in," Peach said. "I am so proud of where our kids are at this point."

It's a fun place to be.

Campbellsville University quarterback Jacob Russell scrambles on a big 20-yard run during the Tigers' win over third-ranked Georgetown Saturday.

Russell leads Campbellsville past No. 3 Georgetown

From staff reports

Anderson County High School graduate Jacob Russell helped engineer what some are calling the greatest upset in the history of the Campbellsville University football program.

A senior quarterback, Russell led Campbellsville past Georgetown, 28-24 Saturday.

Georgetown was ranked No. 3 in NAIA going into the game. Russell completed 28-of-43 passes for 312 yards and three touchdowns as Campbellsville had a happy Homecoming at Finley Stadium.

Russell also became the first Campbellsville quarterback to have two 300-yard passing games. He had 414 earlier in the year against Lindsey Wilson.

Campbellsville scored only the third win in program history over a Top 10 team and it was the first time the Tigers had turned the trick on their home field.

Campbellsville improved to 4-2 and sits atop the Mid-South Conference West standings. Georgetown fell to 4-1.

Kentucky 48, Louisiana-Monroe 14

The Wildcats overcame a lethargic start to go 5-1 for only the eighth time in school history.

Trailing 14-3, the Wildcats perked up after an 83-yard pass from Patrick Towles to Javess Blue. It started a 45-0 run over the last three quarters and included two interceptions returned for touchdowns.

Anderson County High School graduate Ross Cox is a walk-on tight end for the Wildcats.

Minnesota 24, Northwestern 17

Minnesota's Jaylen Myrick returned a fourth-quarter kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown to provide the difference as the Gophers defeated visiting Northwestern on Saturday.

Northwestern fell to 3-3, 2-1 in the Big 10. Minnesota improved to 5-1, 2-0.

Anderson County High School graduate Chris Fitzpatrick starts at long snapper for Northwestern.

Murray State 44, Southeast Missouri 41

K.D. Humphries hit Jawanski Davis with a 7-yard scoring pass in the second overtime to lead host Murray to a win over Southeast Missouri, ranked No. 23 in the Football Championship Series.

Anderson County High School graduate Bill Rose is a back-up kicker for Murray State.

Jacksonville 45, Morehead State 26

The Dolphins dominated a Pioneer League game. Anderson County High School graduate Todd DeWoody started at left guard for Morehead.

Centre 44, Berry 7

The Colonels moved to 5-0 with the home field victory. Anderson County resident Steve Sims was credited with an assist on a tackle for the Colonels. Seth Carmichael and Tristin Ashburn did not see action for Centre.

YOUTH HUNTERS NOTCH SUCCESSFUL WEEKEND

From staff reports

Youth hunters had a bang-up weekend, going 9-for-9 in harvesting deer during the annual event sponsored by the Anderson County Sportsman's Club with an assist from officers with Kentucky Fish and Wildlife.

The nine participating hunters bagged three bucks, two button bucks and four does, according to a news release.

"These are times that will never be forgotten for the youth and for the adults," organizers said in a news release. "Thank you to all the supporters, great or small."

The youth hunters began their adventure Oct. 3 and 4 with a hunter safety course at the sportsman's club, which has donated the use of its facility to the event since its inception in 2010.

The youth received proper training instruction in firearms and ammunition, first aid, survival in the outdoors, wildlife identification and management and basic bow hunting, organizers said.

Students participated in classroom sessions and live fire field training with guns and archery tackle.

They then put their training to work this past weekend with each hunter hitting the field with an experienced guide.

Soggy and cool days greeting the hunters, but all were able to successfully harvest a deer.

"A special thanks goes out to all those who made this event possible: local businesses, landowners, guides and volunteers," organizers said.

"Without their help, these youth may not have had the opportunity to hunt, and were able to enjoy the outdoors while putting food on the table."

Anyone interested in volunteering for the next youth hunt is asked to contact Fish and Wildlife officer David Goodlett at 502-604-3731.

REWARD: MISSING GREAT PYRENEES. His name is Mack. He has been missing since Tuesday, September 23rd from HWY 44 at the Anderson Spencer line on the Anderson side. Mack had a collar and tags on that may or may not be on him any longer. If his collar is still on, it will have our home number on it. He has multiple dewclaws in the back. He is under a year old but, he is a large dog. He is white in color with a medium/long coat (fluffy). Although we think he has been spotted several times wondering by the road, I am hoping that no one has acquired him with the intentions of keeping him or has harmed him in any way. If you have any information that will lead to him or you see Mack, please contact us. We will take any information seriously. So, please do not hesitate to give us any information you come upon. It will be appreciated. We have searched and will continue but, we need your help to find him. We miss him and are worried.

MASTER

COMMISSIONER'S SALE

In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, October 30, 2014, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts herein-after set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

(2) PLEASE NOTE: The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes, whether current or delinquent.

(3) Easements, restrictions, stipulations and agreements of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office. Assessments for public improvements levied against the property, any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose and any and all planning and zoning regulations imposed upon the subject property

(4)Where the real estate has insurable improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner or the appropriate Plaintiff. Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder as the successful bidder's cost.

(5) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

The change in rates is based on a proposed new tariff provision:

A System Development Rider (SDR) applicable to all customers receiving gas service under Atmos' Rate Schedules G-1, G-2, T-3 and T-4. The Rider is designed to encourage economic development and job growth by allowing Atmos to recover operational expenses, capital expenditures or both associated with the expansion and/or improvement of infrastructure to existing and/or new service areas not otherwise feasible. Atmos may expend up to $5,000,000 annually for such projects or additional amounts subject to Public Service Commission approval.

The tariff also sets forth the mechanism for calculating the SDR revenue requirement.

All other charges not specifically mentioned herein shall remain the same as those presently in effect. The proposed rates will result in an overall approximate increase in the amount of $2,067,352 or 2.93% with increases of approximately $1,247,156 or 2.93% for residential consumers, and $487,943 or 2.93% for commercial consumers, and approximately $332,253 or 2.93% for industrial consumers. Charges from other gas revenue will not increase. The average monthly bill for residential consumers will increase approximately $0.67 or 1.13%. The average monthly bill for commercial consumers will increase approximately $2.11 or 0.38%. The average monthly bill for industrial consumers will increase approximately $59.55 or 1.86%. The impact on each customer's average bill will vary according to individual consumption or transportation levels. However, this impact can be determined by each customer by applying the proposed rates listed above to their respective average consumption or transportation levels.

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Atmos Energy Corporation, however, the KPSC may order rates to be charged that differ from the proposed rates contained in this notice. Such action may result in rates for customers other than the rates included in this notice.

Any corporation, association, or person with a substantial interest in this matter may by written request to the KPSC within thirty (30) days after publication or mailing of this notice of the proposed rate changes, request to intervene; intervention may be granted beyond the thirty (30) day period for good cause shown. Requests to intervene should set forth the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party and be submitted to the KPSC at the address listed below. Any person who has been granted intervention by the Commission may obtain copies of the rate application and any other filings made by the utility from the utility's website or by contacting Atmos at the address listed below or from the KPSC's office or website listed below.

Any person may obtain a copy of the application, testimony or other documents or examine the rate application and any related filings at the offices of Atmos listed below or at its website or the Commission office or its website listed below. Written comments regarding the proposed rate may be submitted to the Public Service Commission by mail or through the Public Service Commission's web site. A copy of the application and all related documents are available for public review at the offices and websites of Atmos and the KPSC listed below:
